B-Troop is looking for a few good volunteers

BY STAFF SGT. SHARRON STEWART
TIME OUT EDITOR

The members of B-Troop, 4th U.S. Cavalry (Memorial) are looking for a few good volunteers to help with what could be considered a labor of love.

The organization, which currently has 11 troopers and 16 horses, falls under the United States Army Garrison, and currently has openings for several individuals who are service-minded and who love to uphold the unit's honor and tradition. Female riders are also encouraged to become part of the Ladies Auxiliary.

Sgt. Heath Gunter, a B-Troop volunteer, has been riding with the organization since November and said he loves it. "I love being around the horses. It gives me time to unwind. I also love the nostalgia and history B-Troop represents," Gunter said.

"Troopers help each other out. We are a close knit family," Gunter said.

He also said he feels like being a part of B-Troop is a good way to bond with his son. "Once you become a trooper, your immediate family can ride B-Troop horses for free as long as it's cleared with the horse's rider," he said.

He said none of the horses are personally owned but all are U.S. government property and are fed and cared for by the troopers. The horses are still branded by the U.S. government but the process involves using a liquid coolant and not a hot branding iron. "The liquid coolant process is much more humane and painless," Gunter said.

Gunter went on to say the horses are kept at Buffalo Corral in two separate pastures. The quarantine pasture is for horses new to the organization, those getting over minor illnesses, or those getting over injuries. It's also used for horses that need to add extra weight.

B-Troop has received a lot of recognition in the past several years and has appeared in such prestigious events as the Fiesta Bowl, the Tournament of Roses and even the Orange Bowl Parade.

Gunter went on to say that during the third weekend of October troopers will ride to Tombstone in full period dress and have lunch along the way.

Peter Criscuolo, a Fort Huachuca Department of Army civilian, and B-Troop's executive officer, said those who want to become B-Troopers must currently be serving on active duty status, be in the Reserves or National Guard, be Department of Defense civilians, or be a military retiree or the family member of the above.

He went on to say potential troopers participate in two phases of training which are held on Thursdays at 5 p.m.

The first phase is ground school and the second phase is riding school.

For more information, call B-Troop at 533-1778 or Jo Richter, post volunteer coordinator, at 533-4823.

Fort Huachuca noncommissioned officer to appear on goarmy.com

BY STAFF SGT. SHARRON STEWART
TIME OUT EDITOR

A 36th Army Band member will appear on the www.goarmy.com Web site in the near future in order to assist with Army-wide band recruitment efforts.

Sgt. Terrina Anderson said when she decided to join the Army less than two years ago she counted on doing what she loves, which is playing the clarinet. She also said she felt like letting out a sigh of relief when she learned the Army will pay off $40,000 in student loans for her at the end of her first three years in the Army. Before joining the Army, Anderson earned her master's degree in clarinet performance.

Because of her sense of gratitude, Anderson volunteered to appear on www.goarmy.com as a way to recruit new members into the Army-band system. She is tentatively scheduled to appear on the www.goarmy.com Web site later this summer.

From May 6-9 she was sent to Fort McPherson, which is located in Atlanta, in order to pose for pictures and to conduct an interview that will be featured on the site.

She said all members of the Army band throughout the Department of the Army were sent an email requesting volunteers and she replied taking them up on the offer.

"The Army will take any recruit who desires to be a band member if they have the needed experience and meet the qualifications but the Army also sees the need for more mature players who have earned their college education and who can mentor younger performers," she said.

Kartchner Cavern offers a world of adventure a short drive away

BY NELL DRUMHELLER
SCOUT STAFF

One minute you're standing outside in the dry, blazing sunlight so common in the Arizona desert. A moment later, a few paces down a neat path with shiny stainless steel handrails and you're in another world.

Kartchner Caverns State Park is a short drive from Fort Huachuca, but once you've entered into the caverns hidden in the ocotillo-studded hills there, you may think you've gone on a time-lapsed space trip to Mars.

Not only is the ambient temperature totally unlike that of the desert outside the steel-reinforced doors that protect the climate inside the caves, but so is the air, it's humidity has a dewy feel to it.

It truly feels as if you have wandered into another realm, but the well-informed guides keep your feet on earth and your hands off the walls.

As they explain, the oils from your hand, if accidentally imprinted against the fragile interior of the caverns, could stunt the growth of that area for thousands of years.

Some information provided by the caverns' staff:

Cave history

In November 1974 two young cavers, Gary Tenen and Randy Tufts, were exploring the limestone hills at the base of the Whetstone Mountains. In the bottom of a sinkhole they found a narrow crack leading into the hillside. Warm, moist air flowed out, signaling the existence of a cave. After several hours of crawling, they entered a pristine cavern.

It wasn't until February 1978 that Tenen and Tufts told the property owners, James and Lois Kartchner, about their amazing discovery.

During the four years of secret exploration, the discoverers realized that the cave's extraordinary variety of colors and formations must be preserved.

The cave's existence became public knowledge in 1988 when its purchase as an Arizona State Park was approved. Extraordinary precautions have been taken during its development to conserve the cave's near-pristine condition.

Nature's creation

It all began with a drop of water...A shallow inland sea covered this area 330 million years ago, depositing layers of sediment that eventually hardened into limestone. Millions of years later this Escabrosa limestone along with other rock layers up-

Apache Lake gets stocked with 50,000 walleye

ARIZONA GAME AND FISH DEPARTMENT RELEASE

Apache Lake is long and narrow and is the second largest Salt River Project lake. It is located off the Apache Trail (Highway 88) about 65 miles from Phoenix, and is a favorite with many sportsmen, particularly those from southern Arizona. The Apache Lake Marina and Resort is one mile from the main highway and features a motel, gas station, coffee shop, picnic supplies and a trailer park for 12 units. A boat ramp and dock are at the resort, and a county sheriff's aid station is nearby. The Three Bar Wildlife Area is just across the lake from the resort and provides a scenic spot for photographers. Seven miles northeast of the resort is the Burnt Corral Recreation Site with 17 spaces for trailers which are less than 17 feet long. The area is open all year and has boat launching facilities.

The Apache Lake walleye fishery got a "shot in the arm" on May 8 when 50,000 fingerlings were stocked at various locations in the lake via a sunset boat ride.

The Arizona Game and Fish Department's Bubbling Ponds Fish Hatchery raised the fingerlings to their one-inch size from the 100,000 almost microscopicsac-fry (three-day old fish) they received 25 days previously.

"Healthy and hungry for zooplankton (microscopic animals), the baby walleye hit the water swimming," says Jim Warnecke, Mesa regional fisheries program manager.

Department biologists stock the fish during evening hours to not only allow the youngsters to take advantage of migrating plankton but also to avoid sunfish predation.

Biologists used boats to spread the hordes of little ones throughout the middle five miles of Apache Lake to ensure an even distribution for quick growth.

Within seven months, the young walleye are expected to grow to 11 inches and by 18 months, be ready for angler harvest at 19 inches in length.

"Walleye up to 10 pounds have been caught in Apache over the last 10 years since the inception of the fingerling-stocking program," says Warnecke.

Although mortality rates can be high among the small fish (as much as 80 percent), a year class of 10,000 walleye will be significant for the Apache Lake fishery and welcome news for walleye anglers. Biologists will know more about the success of this stocking effort when fall surveys are conducted.

lifted to form the Whetstone Mountains. The Escabrosa limestone containing the cave down-dropped thousands of feet relative to the mountains above.

Rainwater, made slightly acidic by absorbing carbon dioxide from the air and soil, penetrated cracks in the down-dropped limestone block and slowly dissolved passages in it. Later, lowering groundwater levels left behind vast, air-filled rooms.

Kartchner Caverns' wide variety of decorations, called "speleothems", began forming drop by drop over the next 200,000 years.

Awe-inspiring views are around each corner in Kartchner Caverns. The park is located nine miles south of I-10, off State Hwy 90, exit 302.

Water seeping from the surface dissolves minerals on its trip through the limestone. Once it reaches the cave, the trapped carbon dioxide escapes from the water. No longer able to hold the dissolved calcite, the drop deposits its tiny mineral load. Over time, these minerals have created the beautiful speleothems and variety of colors found in the cave. Kartchner Caverns is a "living" cave; the formations are still growing!

Bats and other cave creature

During the summer months, the cave's Big Room serves as a nursery roost for over 1,000 female cave myotis bats. The pregnant females return to Kartchner Caverns from Mexico around the end of April, where they give birth to a single pup in late July. The babies remain in the roost each evening while their mothers forage for insects in the surrounding countryside. During the summer the colony consumes about half a ton of insects, consisting of moths, flying ants, beetles, mosquitoes and termites. Mothers and their offspring will leave mid-September, to begin their migration back to Mexico for their winter hibernation. These bats provide the only link between the ecosystem of the cave and the surface. After returning to the bat roost from their nightly forays, the bats excrete waste, forming large guano piles. Most of the other life forms found in the cave depend on these guano piles for their food. Fungi and bacteria consume the guano first. These are in turn eaten by nematodes, mites, isopods, amphipods and book lice. These are then eaten by spiders, scorpions, mites, millipedes and centipedes. Scavengers, like crickets and beetle larvae, clean up the leftovers. The bats' guano provides the energy needed to run this complex food chain.

Paleontology of the cave

While exploring the cave, paleontologists, those who study prehistoric life, uncovered an 86,000 year record of the local faunal community. The finds included the following: skeletons of an 80,000 year old Shasta ground sloth, a 34,000 year old horse and an 11,000 year old bear, as well as terrestrial snails, a clam, a toad, lizards, rabbits, snakes, a coyote, a ringtail, and many species of rodents. These discoveries have lead paleontologists to declare Kartchner Caverns a treasure house of information on the local fossil history of the uplands around the San Pedro River Valley.

Cave formations

The formations that decorate caves are called "speleothems." Usually formations are composed of layers of calcite called travertine deposited by water. The form a speleothem takes is determined by whether the water drips, flows, seeps, condenses or pools.

Kartchner Caverns is home to:

- the longest soda straw formation in the U.S. (second longest in the world) 21 feet 2 inches (Throne Room)
- the tallest and most massive column in Arizona, Kubla Khan: 58 feet tall (Throne Room)
- the world's most extensive formation of brushite moonmilk (Big Room)
- the first reported occurrence of "turnip" shields (Big Room)
- the first cave occurrence of "birdsnest" needle quartz formations
- many other unusual formations such as shields, totems, helictites and rimstone dams.

You can't see the caverns without buying a ticket, all tours are guided. Cave tours are about 75 minutes long, 45 minutes are underground. All tours are guided by a trained tour guide.

Reservations are strongly recommended and can be made by calling: (520)586-CAVE. The cave averages 68°F and 98 percent humidity year round. All cave trails are barrier-free. Due to wet surfaces and changes in grades, strollers and walkers are not allowed on the tours.

Students recognized for patriotism essays

BY RICK WARD
KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

To one student it is "the feeling of love and devotion to my country." Another student sees it as "more of an act instead of a word," while still another suggests that it is "something we should carry in our hearts at all times."

These are but a few of the feelings expressed by students who submitted essays on "What Patriotism Means to Me." The event was sponsored by the Knights of Columbus 4th Degree, Saint Francis of Assisi Assembly, Sierra Vista.

A total of 246 students submitted essays for the panel of judges to read and rate on the development of the topic, logical arrangement of thoughts, effective words and sentences, grammar, spelling and punctuation. First, second and third place winners at each school were awarded Savings Bonds in the amounts of $100, $75 and $50. The Assembly awarded another Bond in the amount of $500 to the "Best Overall Essay" from among the three first place winners.

First place at Col. Smith Middle School went to Sofia Bieranowski, 8th grade, who wrote, "patriotism should be as regular as breathing." She urged people to "go out of their way to help those less fortunate than themselves so that everybody will feel like they belong here."

Second place at Smith went to Megan Bockbrader, a 7th grader, who wrote of our historical rights and freedoms. "As I stand every morning to pay my respect to the country, I think about how lucky I am to live in America," she noted.

been the band's noncommissioned officer of the quarter, said the Army wants performers who can fill shortage band military occupational specialties.

"One of the great things about being a musician is the fact that my work is so enjoyable. I get to do what I love, which is pretty fortunate," she said.

"I can't recommend that anyone come in the Army because I don't know what's best for everyone, but if you simply need to take a look at life and set goals, I think the Army is a great place to start. When you come in you don't have to know whether or not this will be your career," she said.

"It's perfectly okay to serve your country for three or four years, gain experience and then go on and do something else," she said.

Eventually Anderson wants to have a college teaching post and perform professionally in an orchestra.

Summer youth programs available

This summer, the Directorate of Community Activities offers a large number of programs and activities for youth of all ages. Child and Youth Services offers programs for youth through the Child Development Center, Family Child Care, School Age Services and Youth Services. The DCA also has summer programs and activities in all facilities.

Kid's Night Out is the first Saturday of every month from 6:30-10:30 PM at the Child Development Center. Children six weeks through grade 5 can come in for evening hourly care. Children can relax and play in the Center's comfy, cozy setting while parents enjoy a dinner out, movie or quiet time alone. Contact 533-5209. To register in the CYS system, contact 533-0738.

Preschool Summer Camp is in progress and goes through Aug. 8. Monday through Friday from 8:30-11:30 a.m., children can participate in the camp, which is organized into weekly themes such as: Make New Friends, Under the Sea, Preschool Art, Outer Space and Backyard Creepy Crawlers. The theme weeks allow children to learn, explore and develop their social skills for the years ahead. Contact 533-5209. For registration call 533-0738.

Rent-A-Space is a program designed to offer space in the New Beginnings Child Development Center on a temporary basis. Patrons enrolled at the Center who do not need care during leave or TDY, advertise the openings on the CDC bulletin board. Eligible families can then rent the space on a first-come, first-served basis. The age group of the child must match and the fee is based on total family income. Contact 533-5209. To register call 533-0738.

School Age Services offers a summer camp for youth in grades 1-5, grade is based on the 2002-03 school year. The camp is open from 5:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mon.-Fri. Youth can be registered for the full day program or as hourly participants. This summer, the program will be held in the brand new School Age Center located between the Main Post Chapel and the AAFES Garden Center. Youth participate in field trips, bowling, swimming, games, computer lab and other fun activities. For more information contact 538-1198. For registration info call 533-0738.

Youth Services offers a Middle School & Teen Summer Camp for youth in grades 6-9, grade is based on the 2002-03 school year. The camp is open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mon. through Fri. This year the MST summer camp will be in the Youth Center (Bldg. 49013 across from Smith Middle School). Youth can participate in various activities and programs designed for middle school age youth. Cost of the program is $25 per week, there is no hourly or daily fee for this program. Contact 533-3205 for more information. For Registration call 533-0738.

Buffalo Corral Riding Stables is sponsoring a Summer Horse Camp. Youth, 7-17, can learn basic horsemanship, western pleasure riding, grooming and safety. Weekly camps begin Sunday, go through Aug. 8 and are held from 8 a.m.-noon. Cost of the camp is $95 per person per week. Contact 533-5220 for more information and registration.

Other MWR facilities such as the Sportsman's Center, MWR Arts Center, Desert Lanes, swimming pools, etc. also have numerous summer activities for youth. Check elsewhere on this page and in future issues of The Scout for details.

Sierra Vista Parks, Leisure Services offers summer youth activities

• The Summer Smart Start Sports Camp will be held Saturdays starting this week, 10-11 a.m. at Domingo Paiz Softball Field #1.

This program is designed to help motivate and develop athletic abilities for girls and boys, 3 to 5. The camp consists of eight, one-hour sessions that introduce sports as a fun and healthy activity. Cost is $45 per child and includes a t-shirt.

Registration is currently in progress at the Oscar Yrun Community Center, the Ethel Berger Center or the Cove.

• Summer Sports Camp, for youth in grades 2-7, will be held at Veterans Memorial Park and the Youth Center Monday-Friday, Monday-July 11, 7 a.m.-noon daily.

Staff will provide instruction in skills, rules and fundamentals for several team and individual sports.

Cost is $35 per week, per child. There may be additional fees for field trips.

Registration is currently in progress at OYCC, EBC or the Cove, but registrations will also be accepted at the site on Monday of each week of camp.

• Summer Break Youth Tennis Lessons will be held at the OYCC tennis courts Mondays and Wednesdays. There will be two sessions. The first will run Monday- June 25. Participants in the first session must register by tomorrow.

The second session will run July 7-30, and participants must register by July 3.

Lessons for beginners will be from 4:30-5:30 p.m. For advanced beginners or intermediates, lessons will be held from 5:30-6:30 p.m. Cost is $50 per participant for youth, 6-17. Class size is limited to eight per session, so register early.

For more information on any of these activities, contact Vickie Bernard, 533-3205 or Jack King, 458-7922.

Boating Safety Class

MWR Rents will be offering a boating safety course Saturday, 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. at the MWR Rents Building number 70914 on Irwin Street. Completion of a boating safety class is necessary to rent boats from MWR Rents. Call 533-6707 for more information.

Junior Summer Golf Program

Mountain View Golf Course will offer a summer series of clinics and playing golf for youth, 7-18. The sessions will be held June 17-19, June 24 and 25, July 8-10, and July 22-24. Classes for ages 7-11, will be from 9 a.m.-11 a.m. for ages 12 years and up will be noon - 2 p.m. Instructor will be Jason Pitts. A tournament will be held following the program. There will also be a pizza day, date to be announced. Cost of the program is $75 and includes all days of instruction and tournament fees. Space is limited, so sign up early at the Pro Shop at MVGC.

Volunteers interested in assisting with the program are also needed. To volunteer, or for more information, call Jason Pitts at 533-7088.

Lucky Bucket Sweepstakes

Mountain View Golf Course is offering you a chance to win some great prizes in the "Lucky Bucket Sweepstakes."

Open to all authorized MWR patrons, the sweepstakes provides two ways for patrons to win.

Each week, a "Lucky" number golf ball will be dropped into the driving range ball machine. The golfer who receives the lucky ball will win an instant prize, which could be anything from a Swiss Army Knife to a DVD/CD player.

Also, for every purchase at the driving range, patrons will receive an entry form for a grand prize drawing scheduled on or about July 31 for two "Great Golf Escape" Packages at a championship golf resort, (valued at approximately $5,000).

Call 533-7088 for more information.

Post EO Office looking for actors interested in auditioning for women's suffrage play

BY TANJA LINTON
MEDIA RELATIONS

The Fort Huachuca Equal Opportunity Office wants actors interested in playing a role in a women's suffrage play, "Failure is Impossible," to schedule an auditions to be held in June.

The following parts are open for auditions: Abigail Adams, Sarah Grimke, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Frederick Douglass, Susan B. Anthony, Sojourner Truth, Frances Gage, Lucy Stone, Clara Barton, Mr. Reagan of Texas, Mary Ware Dennett, Harriot Stanton Blatch, Woodrow Wilson, Carrie Chapman, Nettie Rogers Schular, and several parts for narrators.

There is also a need for individuals interested in helping with backdrops, costumes, construction of set design, etc.

This is a great opportunity for anyone interested in being a part of a wonderful play for Women's Equality Day on Aug. 26, commemorating women's suffrage.

To express your interest in auditioning for a role, call Beth Ford at 538-0281 or email her at beth.ford@us.army.mil.
