

Apache Indian scouts at Huachuca in 1879. At the extreme left is sergeant Edward Murphy. Photo courtesy Mr. and Mrs. Leng. @1879.00.00.001

Slim Jim, the Apache Kid, and an unknown Apache. @1880.00.00.001

*Interior of single barracks at Fort Huachuca, old building no. 18 (31122), barracks for Troop F, 4th Cavalry.
Built out of adobe in 1886, it was salvaged around 1955. @1880.15.00.006*

The 24th and 25th Infantry Regiments were two of the original four regular black regiments formed in 1866. They saw much frontier service during the Indian campaigns in the American West. Here, men of the 25th Infantry warm themselves around a Sibley stove at Fort Keough, Montana, in 1890-91. @1880.15.00.010

*Troop I, 4th Cavalry, in the mouth of Bisbee Canyon, 1884.
Sgt. Emil Pauly is standing on the right with stripes on arm. Photo courtesy Lt. Col. John H. Healy. @ 1880.15.00.60*

Lieut. Marion Maus and his Indian scouts. @1880.15.00.061

Cavalry stables at Fort Huachuca. @1880.15.00.066

Barracks while under construction at Huachuca. Soldiers and laborers stand on the porches. @1880.15.00.106

A view of Fort Huachuca with horses grazing in foreground. @1880.15.00.110

Apache Indian Scouts at Fort Wingate. @1880.15.00.154

Apaches with troopers standing on the crest of the hill. A C.S. Fly photo. @1886.00.00.000

*George Crook and his staff in 1886. Standing: Seventh from left, Charles M. Strauss, mayor of Tucson; tenth from left, Lieut. William Ewen Shipp; eleventh from left, behind Crook, Lieut. Samson Lane Faison; twelfth from left, Captain John G. Bourke; fourteenth from left, with large white hat, dark shirt, and suspenders, Al Sieber. Sitting: Fifth from left, in white shirt, Wom Horn; sixth from left, Lieut. Marion P. Maus; seventh from left, Capt. Cyrus Swan Roberts; eighth from left, Charles D. Roberts, son of Captain Roberts; ninth from left, General Crook; tenth from left, "Interpreter," possibly Corydon E. Cooley. Identified in Dan Thrapp's Conquest of Apacheria. A C. S. Fly photo. @1886.00.00.001*

Geronimo and Natchez as prisoners at Fort Bowie in September 1886. U.S. Army Signal Corps photo SC 87375. @1886.00.00.044

The famous Crook-Geronimo meeting at Canyon de los Embudos, 25 March 1886. From left to right: Lt. William F. Shipp, Capt. C.S. Roberts, Geronimo, Concepcion, Nana, Noche, Lt. Marion P. Maus, Jose Maria, Antonio Besias, Jose Montoyo, Capt. John Gregory Bourke, General Crook, Charlie Roberts. @1886.03.25.002

*Interior of the officer's quarters at Fort Huachuca around the turn of the century.
@1890.15.00.007*

"Mrs. Batchelor's Parlor." Photo courtesy B.W. Leavell collection, Fort Huachuca Museum. @1894.00.00.002

*"Camp in Garden Canyon, 24th Infantry, 1894." Photo courtesy C. B. Ebert.
@1894.00.00.011*

Buildings N^o 17 & 18.

N^o 17 to left known as Administration Building.

BARRACKS.

Barracks, buildings no. 17 (22320) and 18 (31122). Bldg no. 17 to the left, originally built as barracks, was used for an administration building. The building to the right was built in 1886 out of adobe as the barracks for Troop F, 4th Cavalry. It later deteriorated and was used for storage. The building was salvaged around 1955. Bldg. 22320 (5th Cavalry Hall). This was originally built as a barracks but, by 1889, was being used as an administrative building. @1898.00.00.022

Squad room interior of bldg. 22208 (old no. 14) showing members of the 25th Infantry band who were stationed here from October 1898 to the Spring of 1899. @1898.00.00.051

A couple strolling along the wooden boardwalk in front of the officers' quarters at Huachuca. @1898.00.00.052

*Stables, old bldgs. no. 27, 28, 29, 33, and 34 in 1898. National Archives photo.
@1900.00.00.007*

Two officers on the boardwalk in front of the officers quarters at Fort Huachuca around the turn of the century. @1900.15.00.009

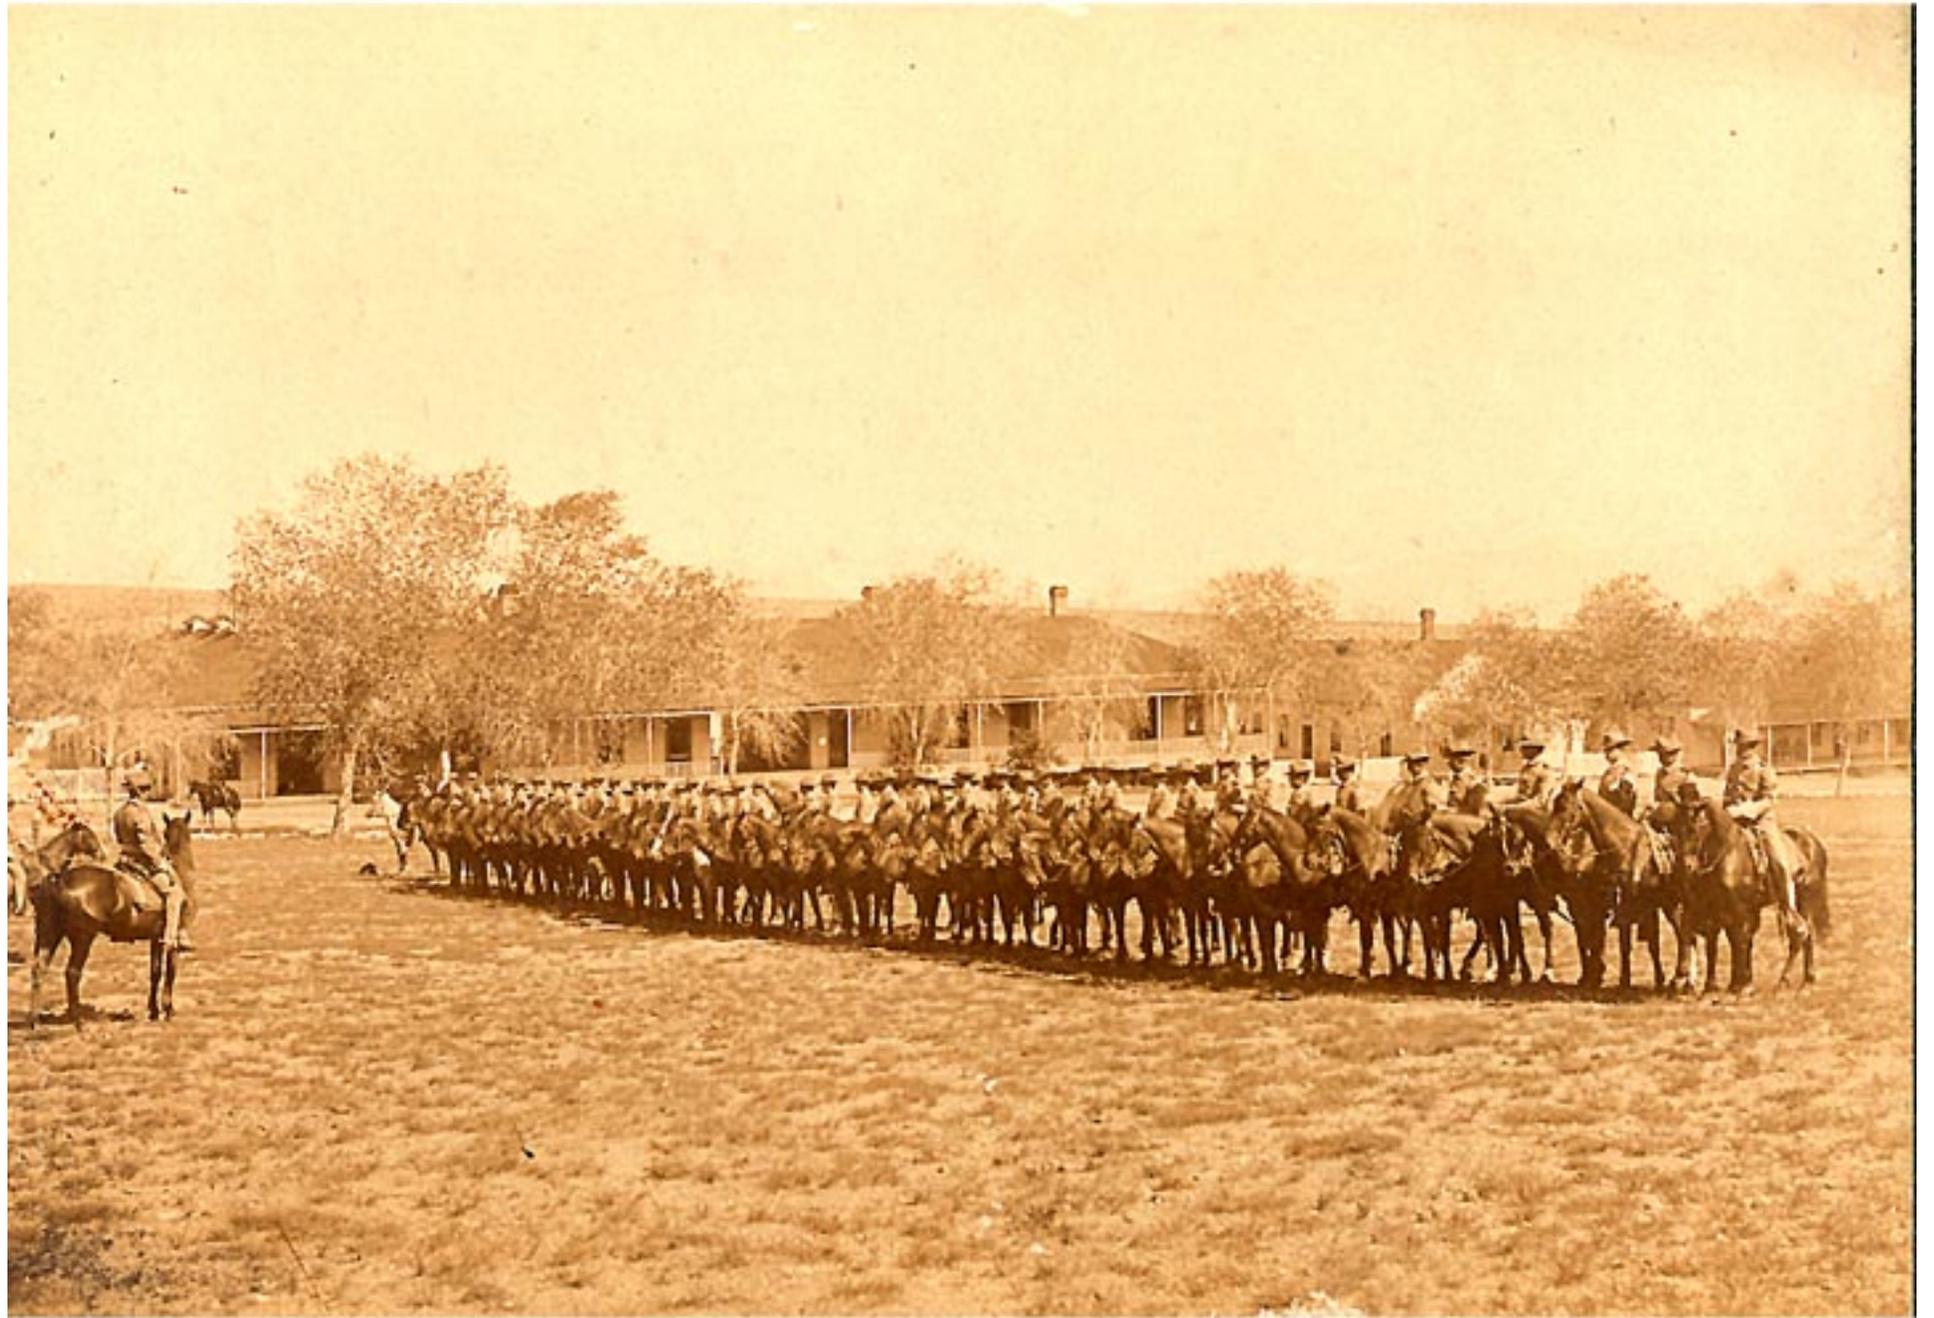

The Macomb family starting for a ride in Janaury 1901. Photo courtesy Captain Alexander Macomb, USN Ret. @1901.01.00.012

"Fancy Dress Ball" at Fort Huachuca on Valentine's Day, 1903. The party was given in the Post Recreation Hall by Major (in the back row between the sailor and the lady) and Mrs. Charles Mallon O'Connor (3d from the left in front row), 14th Cavalry, in honor of visiting Brig. Gen. Frederick Funston (4th from the left in front row). Photo courtesy Captain Alexander Macomb, USN Ret. (in the front row standing 6th from the left, standing to the right of his mother). @1903.02.14.001

Bldg. no. 21115 (Brayton Hall). A versatile building with varied uses, Brayton Hall had its beginnings in 1887 as an amusement hall. It provided the first real competition for the infamous saloons of Tombstone. @1905.00.00.002

Double officers' quarters completed in 1892 at a cost of $4,926.70. This picture was taken on March 1, 1905. Now building 41401, it was first known as bldg. no. 54 and then no. 4001. Bldg. no. 41401 (Fort Huachuca Museum). The building which now houses the Fort Huachuca Historical Museum has had varied uses since its construction in 1892. First a post chapel, and for a brief time, the home of the post chaplain Maj. Winfield Scott, the building later became the bachelor officers' quarters. It was remodeled in 1920 as the officers' club, and used for that purpose until 1941. The structure then became post headquarters, and in 1960 was converted into a museum. @1905.03.01.20

The barracks at Fort Huachuca around 1918. @1910.14.00.006

Tents of Troop D, 10th Cavalry, at Naco, Arizona, around 1914 or 15. This troop was commanded by 1st Lt. Orlando C. "Daddy" Troxel. Commanding the First Squadron of the 10th Cavalry at Naco was Major Elwood Evans. Photo courtesy Maj. Gen. John B. Brooks. @1914.00.00.010

Civilian families in front of the sutler's store at Huachuca around 1914. @1914.00.00.019

